THE UNITED STATES IS MY BIRTHPLACE, HOME, AND COUNTRY

FOREWORD

This book was written based on decades of personal memories, nine self-published books, a personal blog, historical and scientific research throughout the international community, and religious indoctrination the first seventeen years of life by a Christian mother and equally Christian community. The books intent is not to change anyone's opinion but to reemphasize our country is "The United States."

No! The United States is not "The United States of America." Point and fact, at the defeat of the British Empire United States Ambassadors/Representatives visited foreign governments where they identified our country as the United States.

Yes, when drafting the "Articles of Confederation," a Quaker Continental Representative from the State of Delaware added "Of America" however, in my opinion, with many of the Continental Congress members allegedly being followers of the God of Abraham, the error was not corrected. Moreover, in the 1950s, the Christian community forced the Eisenhower Administration to remove our original motto "Out of Many, One" and replaced it with an un-Constitutional motto "In God in We Trust." The US Constitution dictates - Separation of Church and State.

Several of my close friends ask why my concern of the "Of America" phrase.

The United States did not become a sovereign nation to replace the aggressive British Empire nor with designs to become an empire. The United States, in my opinion, was to be a nation where all species of mankind could seek Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness, knowing said pursuits were guaranteed through the dictates of the United States Constitution. Sadly, a wealthy foreign family became the primary lender to the United States Government at statehood and the same family is among the primary lenders/investors in the Federal Reserve since their establishment in 1913. (The Federal Reserve replaced and added functions to the past duties of the US Department of Treasury.)

Equally discouraging, the "Of America" implies, to me, the United States is the sovereign power/authority of all countries in North, Central and South America. My home and country the United States which is located on the North American Continent between the two nations of Canada (British Commonwealth State) and Mexico. To this end, I am an honorably retired US Air Force Disabled Military Veteran and Office of Personnel Management Office forced retiree that served our great nation for thirty eight years with the idea that our government adhered to the US Constitution and our armed forces were the protector of our nation however, the said years plus the years of retirement have shown former and active duty military force were & are mercenaries of the Federal Reserve System and the Military Industrial Complex.

Regarding our military, I have for decades written and verbally addressed my opinion to members of the three branches of the federal government, US news media, and anyone that would listen to my comments. To this end my suggestion/comments were those of former President George Washington - "Make a Constitutional Amendment removing the title "Commander in Chief of US Armed Forces."

And, of course, the major fault in our great country, since the Spanish aggressors and arrival of the so-called religious, forced or requested to leave Europe and other countries, are enemies of the Constitution and to United States. The written goal of the Gods of Abraham is religious control of all international governments whereas, one religious world order. The non-God of Abraham religion, Mormonism, in my opinion, is even a greater threat to the United States as they are emulating the Hebrew, Jew, Israeli culture of a nation for those individuals of their faith.

President Harry S. Truman made Israel, through the United Nations, in 1949 creating an international aggressor nation built on untruths in the Bible and other God of Abraham publications. Israel is attempting to control the entire Middle East based on lies - The Gods of Abraham.

The founders of Mormonism conned the US Government to endorse the establishment of a state of the Union (Utah), governed internally (originally) by the Mormon Religion whereas said action allows a state to be administered as a religious entity.

Over the years, I have attempted to debunk the untruths in the Old and New Testament that describe the origin of homo species throughout the international community but have failed. No Gods of any shape, form, or whatever have ever existed on the planet earth. In fact, today, the scientific community and true historians are bringing forth the truth regarding the origin of life forms of earth the earth's own resources. To this end, I recall former President John F. Kennedy remarking, "We came from the sea and will return."

Lastly, I will provide research information that, in my opinion, will open your mind and eyes to preserve the United States as a Constitutional Republic.

CHAPER ONE

EARTH'S ORIGIN OF LIFE

Over the past 81 years, I have kept abreast of the international communities' space exploration programs, international news reporting, historical records of possible alien landings and, from my military career, the USAF's Blue Book Program. In this light, over the past year, we've learned research in several United States and foreign scientific institutions that are on the verge of or have “created synthetic RNA building blocks known as trinucleotides to recreate the process of creating the three main molecular building blocks of life in DNA, proteins, and lipids from hydrogen cyanides. The oldest earliest known ancestor of all life on Earth likely resembled a tiny heat-loving Archaeon that thrived on hydron gas.” This brings to mind former President John F. Kennedy's remarks of born of the sea and return to the sea.

“The scientific community have reported the following:

Earth formed 4.5 billion years ago.

Earth may have developed conditions suitable for life 4.3 billion years ago.

Assumption there was life on Earth 4.2 billion years ago.

Carbon evolved at least 3.7 billion years ago. Carbon is an element that is part of all known life.

Cells that gave rise to animals, plants and other complex life-forms didn't evolve until between 2.7 billion and 1.8 billion years ago.

Life forms made up of many cells didn't show up until 600 million years ago.

Modern humans didn't come on the scene until only around 300,000 years ago."

"During the 600-million-year window, life may have emerged repeatedly, only to be snuffed out by catastrophic collision with asteroids and comets."

The statement of collisions with asteroids and comets is extremely interesting to me as I recall recently the United States collected soil and other samples from a moving asteroid. The analysis of said sample revealed the chemical building blocks, essential to developing life forms.

Now to a sad phase of the writing based on the first seventeen years of my life and the rigorous religious teachings taken from the Old and New Testament. To this end, my mother and grandmother Brown believed in God, Heaven, and Hell, which I truly wanted my loved one's belief to be a reality.

Sadly, from my decades of research, we know from factual history that Jerusalem's streets were not made of gold nor was there a heavenly place in Jerusalem. Hell was a natural burn pit outside of Jerusalem where trash, humans and animal remains, and other discards were burned.

Jesus was an uneducated Palestinian that became aware of the unethical practices of local clergy and called attention to same. However, the praise for Jesus in Kentucky comes from his teachings of equality, especially for women, care for the sick and elderly, and the end of moneylenders and pimps. He was not divine in any form or fashion but learned to benefit from his words of concern for his fellow human beings.

Reading from Roman history there was indeed a man named Jesus who was a thorn in the side of the Jerusalem clergy, as well as moneylenders and pimps. The Roman leader in Jerusalem did indeed order the death of Jesus to avoid a continuation of local revolts against Roman authority. And, for the record, no military leader or any leader would kill an individual capable of healing the sick, turning water into wine, and the many other untruths created by Saul (aka Paul) in building support for Christianity.

Regarding Christianity, we remember the teachings where, in my opinion, Constantine the Great adopted Christianity, for the Roman Empire, to assist in controlling crime, unethical behavior, theft, etc. However, his plan failed as humans throughout world history have objected to dominant authority. The belief or make-believe belief in a God or supreme being is for self-benefit in some form or fashion.

Digressing a bit, we recall Hammurabi's attempt to create law and order with the Hammurabi Code instead of naming a God to bring discipline to the population. Sadly, an unethical scribe or like-person invented the Hebrew Moses and the Ten Commandments to further their falsehoods in religious writings.

After the death of Jesus, the Gods of Abraham clergy, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, developed a new system for getting into heaven and out of hell; naturally it was money or some form of monetary exchange. In this light, in my opinion, the Catholic Religion recently which based on his words will pursue World peace and charity but avoid the lies of a heaven and hell.

And, for the record, the 1970s World Book Encyclopedia's definition of Semite reveals the Hebrews in the 900 BC began a campaign to bring one God to the levant and known world around Mesopotamia. They were successful, as the Gods of Abraham, Judaism, Christianity and Islam were formed throughout the Middle East and after the Religious Crusades and Arab victories, the idea of Hebrew homeland was dwindling. However, along came a rich converted who funded and directed the founding of Zionism. Alas, in 1948 and 1948, the US President, Harry S. Truman, was responsible for the establishment of the Jewish Nation State of Israel.

I have attempted to report there have never been a God or Supreme Being that made Human being but a mission of Hebrews to build a sovereign nation Which was accomplished in 1949. Moreover, a true believer in a God that made mankind would recognize fellow Arab tribesmen as an independent nation of Palestine.

Yes, I know what the former citizens of the United States did to our native North American population, which I am terribly offended - as at least two of my older ancestors were of the Choctaw and Cherokee tribes. In this light, May 29, 2025, I returned from a fact-finding trip, for this book, to New Zealand as I learned the Māori tribesmen are turning away from their forced submission to Christianity to instead become atheist.

Please save the United States as a Constitutional Republic.

CHAPER TWO

ZIONISM VERSUS HUMANITY

Today, June 2, 2025, ABC Evening News reported an illegal (exceeding legal authority to reside and work in the United States) person fire-bombed thirteen members of a Zionist group protesting Hamas' failure to release the remains and live prisoners of the October Hamas attack on the Jewish Nation State of Israel.

Also, they reported a past murder of two individuals, in Washington, DC identified as Jewish. Moreover, the news media continues to use the term antisemitic which makes me question the honesty of the news media's reporting.

First and most importantly, my country, and hopefully yours, is the United States. Our nation is a Constitutional Republic, and according to the Constitution, we do not have a state religion. Citizens are free to worship any entity they choose, or to choose not to worship at all. That may include a god, an entity that has never existed, a simple unproven belief, or, through educational research, the conclusion that the Earth's resources created all living entities on the planet.

I realize if this writing I becomes a book and becomes for sale through book dealers such as, Amazon, Walmart, and others, I will be threatened with death, possibly lose my Department of Veterans Affairs Disability Benefits, or some other negative factor invented by advisories of free speech and truth.

As a person that loves the United States and, equally important, the idea of a country, which has never developed, where all life forms are treated equally and respected - whether human, animals or plant life. This last sentence may sound corny but my 38 years federal government employment throughout the domestic United States, the territory of Guam, and multiple foreign countries, I believe all humans have the same desire of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness plus other forms of life, as well, should not be abused by those seeking self-gratification and wealth. (A separate Chapter will follow regarding a recent research trip to New Zealand detailing a recent Victoria University, Wellington, New Zealand article identifying the Māori tribesmen's rejection of Christianity and the forced loss of customs and cultures imposed by the British Commonwealth Government.)

Now to the subject of this Chapter - Zionism versus Humanity: In 1898, a rich European funded and directed the establishment of Zionism, an organization attempting to build a homeland for those of Hebrew Customs and Culture. To this end, the Zionist Movement brought the international Hebrew community together resulting in conventions, meetings, campaigns, propaganda, and building a new Hebrew Army and the supply of Hebrews in Palestine with military and economic support.

During World War I, a wealthy European wrote a letter to Lord Balfour, Britain's Foreign Minister, requesting the British Government's assistance in establishing a Hebrew homeland. The letter proved successful, and Lord Balfour presented the request to the United Nations in pursuit of a homeland for the Hebrews. However, a white paper was issued in response to the proposal, stating that a separate but equal homeland must also be established for the Palestinians. I still do not completely understand why the term "Palestinians" was used, rather than referring more accurately to the various Arab tribes indigenous to the centuries-old Roman and historical land known as Palestine. These Arab tribes, in both their numbers and names, were similar to the Native American tribes of North America, of which there were hundreds.

After World War I, US President Woodrow's King-Crane Commission to divide the Ottoman Empire which, in my opinion, would have settled most of the tribal/ancestry history for the region - but it failed. Sadly, for many, the establishment of a Hebrew homeland was not one of the Commission's recommendations.

The United Nations directed a British Mandate to maintain peace in Palestine however, at the departure of British Mandate Forces unknowing truthful events occurred.

Fast forward to the Hamas attack in October against the Jewish Nation State and the deaths and destruction against both Hebrews and Arab ethnic tribesmen. To this end, in my opinion, our United States' President and the Prime Minister of Israel are attempting to unite all of Palestine/Israel one nation and in Gaza, build a Riviera/Las Vegas environment whereas, denying Arab ethnic tribesmen a homeland. I do not want a repeat of what my ancestors did to the North American Indians.

In my researched opinion, all life forms were created by the earth's resources, not a God or Supreme Being. Yes, even the US Constitution identifies a "creator" which one must acknowledge since billions of planets and forms have existed outside our solar system for unknown billion or more years.

We, the international community, can live in peace and prosperity once the people end the ability of investors and money lenders to keep the international community at war based on untruths.

CHAPER THREE

SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

Sunday, May 11, 2025, Mother's Day, I had my first meal of the day at the Fiesta Mexican Restaurant in London, Kentucky. And as my friend, Mary, had predicted, the restaurant was filled with Mother Day families celebrating their love for their mother.

Alas! During my meal, a young male, approximately four years old, following behind a female in the distance, came to my side. He reached up and hugged me and I responded in kind and, I believe, he said Thank You. (I didn't wear my hearing aids on this day.) Also, to my surprise, I found a small figurine of Jesus on the table with a caption that read "Jesus Loves You." Later, when it came time to pay the meal debt, I learned the bill had been paid which I suppose was by the parent or parents of the young boy.

The cited incident above was heart-warming but likewise sad to me as I am an atheist or more factual, a person that knows all life on the planet Earth were formed from chemical reactions with the Earth's required elements to accomplish such an amazing task of building living things. For example, the billions of years required to assimilate the different homo species into Homo Sapiens - we, the people of the United States and our world known as Earth.

Digressing back to September 21, 1943, when I was born in Southeast Kentucky to an overly religious (in my opinion) mother and grandmother who forced me to attend religious oriented teachings (just as they had been forced) for the first seventeen years of my life. However, unlike my mother and grandmother, I was assured equal time at home, with World Books and magazine subscriptions, and in the school's libraries to read World Books, Popular Science, National Geographic, and other magazines that illustrated and delivered different opinions and facts regarding the stories revealed in the Old and New Testament.

At seventeen, my mother signed for me to join the United States Air Force for which I served honorably for two decades and one day learning about and participating in nearly twenty years of continuous aggression or hostilities in some form. The first hostilities instigated, in my opinion, by the Eisenhower Administration, was the Cuban Missile Crisis to appease financial interest of the US Mafia, US and foreign investors, and, of course, the rich families in Cuba and Latin America. To me, sadly, the Eisenhower Administration failed to correct our country's misguided foreign policies and attempted coup attempt against President Roosevelt revealed by retired US Marine General Smedley Butler in his Book "War is a Racket." President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, and a Cuban doctor, Fidel Castro, became the President of Cuba.

Unfortunately, as in our current Presidential Administration and the majority political party in the US Congress, President/Doctor Castro was influenced by Che Guevara, a member of the Communist Party, to seek the support of the Soviet Union instead of western nations thereby destroying the unlimited potential of the people and nation of Cuba. To this day, the abuse of Cuba and other Central American countries identified by General Butler has made the once vacation resort center for the international community, a third-world nation without continuous electricity and life sustaining essentials due to the severe sanctions by the US Government's appeasement to the fore identified parties.

The next military learning experience was thirteen-month, unaccompanied assignment at Kunsan Air Base, the Republic of South Korea, and, sadly, the developing wars in Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia.

Korea was divided, South and North, based on political influence, capitalism/democracy and communism, from the Second World War. To this end, after the Second World War came a so called "Police Action War" in the Koreas resulting in the newly established international organization called the United Nations demanding military action against Communist Forces in South Korea. Naturally, the United States, I believe, became the major financial and military faction in this said Police Action. My thirteen months ended with a deep learning experience of customs and cultures of South Korea however, South Korea has become a major industrial country from a once extremely poor, undeveloped nation. Sadly, today, the nation is still divided and under pressure from communist North Korea to unite as one nation. In this light, in my opinion, western investors are denying the will of the Koreans.

My satisfying personal experience while in Korea, on May 7, 1965, a daughter, Melissa Latrell Wilson, was born at Charleston Air Force Base, South Carolina. Sadly, much like the divided Korea, my daughter and I have been separated since 1966 due to martial difficulties.

September 1967. I received orders for transfer to a Special Assignment at Don Muang Royal Thai Air Force Base located at the Bangkok International Airport, Kingdom of Thailand. The King of Thailand and the US Government agreed to use Thailand as the staging area, with Thailand providing military and economic support, for the forthcoming war known as the Vietnam War. Thailand allowed the US to build US military installations throughout the kingdom, use their airspace to build up forces in South Vietnam, and dispatch air sorties to strike Laos, North Vietnam and Cambodia.

And, of note, Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam were seeking to be united nations, with national sovereignty, instead of a colony or under occupation by another nation.

And, on a personal note, approximately three years past, I received a telephone call from a young lady where she and I learned she was my daughter from a DNA test. She and I have an outstanding personal telephone relationship even though we have never met. Her mother, birth-name father and stepfather are deceased.

In 1968, I received orders for a classified (now declassified) assignment which was known as "Project 404." The physical location of the assignment was in the Kingdom of Laos and the duty position was at the US Embassy's Air Attache Office. The said assignment was extremely stressful, frustrating and questionable due to our country's political posture of not allowing the people of Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam to be united as nations under their own sovereignty.

Since my retirement from the US Air Force, I have written several books and built a museum dedicated to our efforts in the Kingdom of Laos and Southeast Asia.

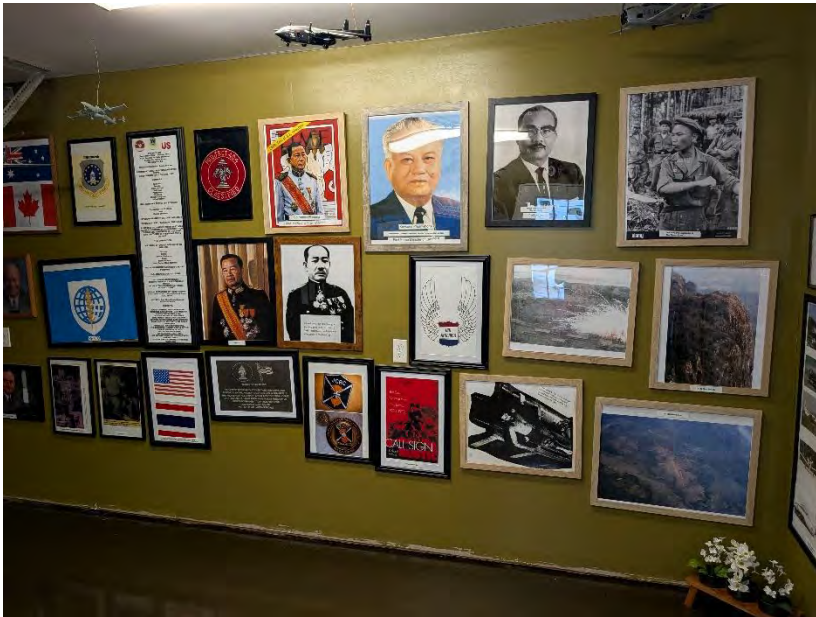

Again, on a personal note, I fathered a son out of wedlock on August 17, 1970, in Laos. Whereas he and I returned to the United States on or about January 9, 1973. From my son, I have two grandchildren and two great grandchildren residing in the State of Michigan.

Near the end of 1973, I received orders to a Special Joint Service Assignment known as the Joint Casualty Resolution Center, which was located at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai Air Base, Kingdom of Thailand. The mission of the command was to resolve the status of United States Missing in Action during the Vietnam Era. The command structure of the command was questionable; however, the US Government determined from said assignment that all missing would be declared "Deceased Body Not Recovered" or "Deceased Body Not Recoverable."

On a personal note, I was dispatched on a covert assignment to the US Vientiane, Laos Embassy, while assigned to JCRC, to recover missing JCRC Top Secret documents and hundreds of pages of US Embassy files on US Missing in Action. From these records, the command was able to change the status of both US civilians and US military missing in Southeast Asia.

And, on a separate occasion, a JCRC Army Sergeant and I drove into heavily communist controlled Northern Thailand near the Mekong River and Communist Laos to recover classified documents recovered by a Thai CIA employee when allied forces took over the Communist Headquarters in Xam Neua, Laos.

The last military overseas assignments for me were at Clark Air Base, the Republic of the Philippines in the late 1970s where there were no active war operations just continuous military preparedness. I was married in the Philippines and returned for a final assignment at Travis Air Force Base, California.

After retirement, I was hired by both Northrop Aircraft Services and McDonnell Douglas Services to allegedly train Saudi Air Force Warrant Officers in the Air Operations vocation during most of the 1980s.

The Northrop assignment was indeed a training assignment as we, Northrop employees at Number 15teen, F-5 Squadron, upgraded, under USAF supervision, two Warrant Officers to a point of self-sufficiency.

Note: King Fahad allowed US air resources to use the Saudi Air Base to support Iraq's war against Iran. King Abdullah replaced Fahad and ended the air supply support to Iraq.

The McDonnell Douglas assignment was without Saudi trainees, we were in fact retired USAF mercenaries running the air operations sections of the Number 6, F-15 Squadron. In June 1989, I learned from a visiting Pentagon Team of high-ranking officers that the United States was going to assume operational control of Saudi Air Bases and other Installations, I knew we were going to war. I resigned and returned to the United States unemployable in my military vocation as an Air Operations Superintendent.

The above may not make sense with the subject of this writing but now I will attempt to explain.

Within the last few days, the Catholic Church elected a new Pope which I agree with his statements of power, greed, and pleasure and additional end war which I will not elaborate except to write: "It is time for the people of the United States to return to the dictates of the US Constitution if we are to remain a free people, with integrity and honor. Moreover, as I stated in the beginning, I do not believe in the Gods of Abraham as in my opinion the names are an approximate six-thousand-year scam. Our people need to know the truth before we are destroyed internally. The life and future of the young male child mentioned previously are denied because of his religious teachings. Yes, the Constitution guarantees said teaching, however, there is supposed to be a separation of church and state.

CHAPER FOUR

ORIGIN OF LIFE

Since the 1950s, I questioned the biblical indoctrination received throughout the day until bedtime. In fact, I probably spent more time in some form of religious instruction than in public school. However, I was indeed fortunate as both my father and mother provided me with, in home copies of World Book, available at supermarkets when purchasing groceries, subscriptions to Popular Mechanics, Look, or Life magazines but the most important were the educational books in the school library and, of course, they allowed me to purchase miniature models of airplanes, automobiles, etc., to assemble. However, equally important to my education, my mother, in my Junior High School purchased a portable typewriter and desk that afforded the ability to receive better duty assignments once I joined the US Air Force.

I'm sorry I strayed from the subject.

Biblical teachings from the Old and New Testament were carried with me when I joined the US Air Force, September 1960, retired on October 1, 1980, employed as an Air Operations Vocation Instructor at King Khalid Air Base, Khamis Mushayt, Asir Province, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and six plus years employed by Federal Government's Office of Personnel Management. From 38 years of domestic and international employment assignments, at every assignment, I investigated indigenous customs and cultures, asked why they believed in God which to the person regardless of the country or state was “Grandmother told me” and observed the environments with the conclusion that we are all the same human beings seeking Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness. The form of government did not matter, whether capitalism, socialism, communism or whatever.

Now, returning to around 900 BCE, we learn from the 1970s edition of the World Book Encyclopedia that the term Semite was defined in part by a mission. According to this source, Arabs from the Hebrew ethnic tribe were tasked with traveling throughout the known world at that time in an effort to promote the belief in one god, rather than the many gods that existed in their Mesopotamian homeland.

King Hammurabi had attempted to establish laws and rules for integrity and honesty without identifying one God to assist in controlling the behavior of the empire's population.

in Jerusalem, a Roman occupied city, came a man named Jesus that became upset and angry with the actions of the local clergy and the inequality among the genders, species, etc., and set out to change the prevailing system of governing. However, the clergy and others did not accept his actions and arrested the man and took him before the Jerusalem's Roman leader and demanded his execution. Naturally, the Roman leader had no choice but to order the death of Jesus as he had failed to do so, the local community would increase their revolts against the Roman Government. The execution did not end the turmoil created by the man named Jesus as one of his followers named Saul (later changed to Paul) was an expert scribe and educated man, and through his writings and personal vocal presentations, created Christianity.

Alas, the Roman Emperor Constantine, the Great decided to make Christianity the Roman Empire's Religion to, in my opinion, to assist his government to control crime, as Constantine felt a god entity would have more influence than an Emperor's Decree.

Sadly, for centuries following the establishment of the Gods of Abraham, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, wars, deaths and destruction prevailed in the so-called civilized nations. Thankfully, religious wars began to wear down in this part of the world and spread to North America.

In North America arrived the Spanish aggressor in search of wealth, slaves, new lands, etc., and sadly, the forced denial of customs and cultures of the North American population. Next came the Anglo Saxons, with their Christianity emulating the Spanish from which millions of North Americans today have been unable to break away.

Fast forward to my recent research trip to Auckland, New Zealand, May 20 - 29, 2025, where I learned the Māori Tribesmen of New Zealand are allegedly rejecting Christianity due to a number of reasons - one of which is the forced denial of customs, cultures, and religious practices/beliefs of the Māori people imposed by the British Government at occupation of Māori land. Also, I learned another reason why alleged religious events in the Middle East five thousand or more years ago have to do with the rest of the planet, especially the Pacific Ocean region and South America.

And, additionally this trip, I learned the Māori of New Zealand, Indonesian, Filipino, Taiwanese, Hawaiians, and the Pacific Islanders, Australians, Samoa, etc., were from a species of people that formed on the island of Formosa (Taiwan).

Digressing, I wrote earlier about my employment in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia which, in my opinion, is extremely important to my origin of life belief. For example, while in Saudi Arabia, I travelled to Asir Province's border with the Red Sea. At the Red Sea region was a Saudi-built museum and facility that depicted the history of Africa and Arabia before and after the Red Sea arrived on the planet. To this end, from the visit, I wrote about the movement of Africans throughout the Arabian Peninsula indifferent directions to the new world regions.

Digressing a bit. Approximately, thirty years past, I visited a Cherokee Museum, in a North Carolina city and watched a film that identified the forming of earth to the point of the arrival of land in the water and starting of mankind. As my research continued, I wrote an administrator of the Five Nations Headquarters about concerns and questions. The administrator responded to the inquiry, and I learned the Five Nations Leadership consider Asians as ancestors of North American tribes. However, to date, I feel their statement regarding the arrival of Asian over the land bridge and other modes, but I feel based on new science of Earth's ability to produce life forms from its own resources that indeed Native American legends of tribal births in specific areas of North America. Also, I believe in the origin of native animals as well. Yes, millions of years past, Asian people came to North America, some stayed, and others moved - maybe because they encountered small population of native Indians or they had not reached what they sought.

And, last evening I read a documentary and watched another video documentary about the unexplained history of civilization in Peru and Boliva. Naturally, I have an opinion on the questions that arise from the two cited locations and the answer is visit by non-earth arrivals either by accident or an alien scouting party much like what the countries of Earth are attempting in our solar system and beyond.

I'm just poor Kentuckian from Bible Belt of the United States and I suggest the migration over the centuries from other lands and natural inception of North Americans and animals defies the Old Testament version of a non-earth entity making mankind. In fact, mother earth is responsible for all living forms of life.

Campaign Z, Wikipedia
(https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Campaign_Z)

For me, this life changing experience began when I received military resignation orders, while stationed at Malmstrom Air Force Base, MT, in 1966, for a Special Department of Defense assignment to the 631st Combat Support Group, located at Don Muang Royal Thai Air Base, Bangkok International Airport, the Kingdom of Thailand.

There were no US military installations in Thailand; the United States was constructing different US service bases/post/installations in Thailand and South Vietnam. Don Muang was the hub for all military action. The only designated military organization was the Joint Military Advisory Group (JUSMAG) headquartered in Bangkok.

Note: The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) was also headquartered in Bangkok.

Upon arrival in Bangkok, via contract US air carriers, we deplaned, processed through Thai immigration and customs, and loaded onto old smelly diesel-powered Mercedes buses for transport to a government-leased old Thai hotel (Trocadero) located in old Bangkok, near a major Thai river and famous international hotels from past decades.

The cited buses would be our US government transportation to and from our quarters at Don Muang for the next thirteen months.

A Thai Air Force's family, for pay, provided our laundry service at the end of the duty day. Meals and alcoholic drinks were, for pay, available if you chose to eat and drink at your residence.

For whatever reason, I was assigned to reside in an apartment owned by a Thai General. My quarters were a two-bedroom apartment which was shared by a legal office non-commissioned officer. The apartment facility provided all the benefits of the old hotel, including laundry service, meals, alcohol, etc. However, the benefit to me was that I didn't have to ride the contracted Thai bus service. The Thai government had a bus service, bus number 29, that I could board at the apartment and be dropped off in front of the Bangkok International Airport Terminal and air traffic control tower. From the bus drop off, I would walk into the terminal and take the elevator to my second-floor duty section - the US Air Force Base Operations Aircraft Dispatch Section.

A couple of floors above Base Operations was the duty section for Thai and USAF air controllers that controlled the landing of air sorties authorized through their filing of a flight plan with the Thai air traffic control center. To this end, over several months, in the tower facility, I became acquainted with both the Thai and USAF air traffic controllers to the point that we became friends, and this friendship afforded the Thai controllers the opportunity to teach me the Thai numbers and enough Thai language to conduct conversations about the local economy – a capability I still possess to this day.

Once my assignment to Don Muang was complete, I received reassignment orders to Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas. The Base Operations function was staffed by federal civilian employees rather than Air Force Air Operations personnel, which was also the case for most other positions in the Air Operations Facility. However, the Air Force had assigned several cross-trainee airmen to the Air Operations career field, and they were required to complete training and earn a rating in that field. In addition to them, there were two other Air Operations specialists. I immediately began writing lesson plans, teaching classes, and creating tests to assess the knowledge and job performance of each trainee.

Wow! The Commander of the Air Operations Facility enrolled me in an Air Force wiring class, which I attended and where I learned to write military air sortie requests and other war-related messages and documents. It appears those classes were instrumental in helping me develop the on-the-job training materials I later created. For my efforts, I was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal.

Sadly, one of the airmen had a learning impairment. At the time, the Air Operations Career Field involved a range of administrative duties such as maintaining aircrew standardization and evaluation records, tracking flying time, updating physical and medical records, and more. It also included more sensitive and high-pressure roles like Air Operations Dispatch, Command and Control Center operations, and Ground Combat Controller duties. In my opinion, this particular airman would not have been able to perform effectively in one of the upgraded roles.

Despite this, he received orders for transfer to Tan Son Nhut Air Base in the Republic of South Vietnam, which was one of the largest Air Operations taskings during the Vietnam era. I immediately wrote to the squadron commander and the Base Personnel Officer, recommending that his orders to Vietnam be canceled. My request was denied. The airman deployed to Vietnam but was later discharged from the U.S. Air Force upon returning to the United States. It was truly unfortunate.

During my time at the base, we were also involved in the rollout of the Air Force's C-5A at Robins Air Force Base in Georgia, as well as the transfer of propeller-driven aircraft sold under the United States Foreign Sales Program to several countries in Central and South America.

After about a year in that assignment, I received transfer orders for a classified posting known as Project 404. The assignment required a Top Secret clearance, a civilian clothing allowance, an official U.S. passport, and two weeks of special combat and evasion training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. I arrived for Project 404 in September 1968 and remained there until I was reassigned to Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Michigan in January 1973.

I was promoted to E-6, Technical Sergeant, during my assignment at Kelly.

CHAPER SIX

DESTRUCTION FROM WITHIN

We, the people of the United States, in my opinion, are the luckiest people on the planet Earth. In the 1600s, European and others began leaving their ancestral homelands to the new world of North America, which the seafaring community called America, and regrettably, in my opinion, the name remains today, as wealthy investors and likeminded politicians seek to include Canada and Mexico as part of the United States - thus America, To me, the name America implies the United States has authority over Canada and Mexico in violation of the dreams of our founders of a country where all people would be treated as equals and not a militaristic empire.

At the defeat of the British Empire and the ratification of the US Constitution, our nation was supposed to be a nation governed under the dictates of a Constitutional Republic, whereas the people of the United States would elect representatives identified as legislators as the government of the United States. There would be a separate but equal branch of government called the Judicial Branch whose task was to assure that the three branches of the federal government did not violate the Constitution. However, the Judicial System had no power other than the integrity of the other two branches to accept the Court's Ruling. The last was the executive branch that provided for an administrator to run the government based on the laws, policies, funding, etc., approved by the Congress (US House of Representative and US Senate) and signed by the President into Law. The Congress was supposed to be the government...

Wait, there were quirks in the system as the different religious sects, even though, we were a nation without an established state religion, controlling much of the three branches' decisions. For example, the ideal of equality quickly disappeared as Black citizens were not considered as whole humans and denied most of the rights allowed for the White population. Moreover, in the beginning, only property owners were allowed to vote. Of course, women had no rights, they were just housewives or homemakers.

In the 1950s, the religious community revealed their true intent of overthrowing our Constitutional Republic by replacing our national motto "Out of many, One" to "In God We Trust."

Digressing a bit to 1948, Harry S. Truman was elected President of the United States during the period of time the Hebrews, at the withdrawal of the United Nations British Mandate Forces from Palestine, recognized the Hebrew aggression and crimes against humanity (the Palestinian people) as the future home of the Jewish Nation of Israel. Moreover, following said recognition, the Truman Administration used the force of the United States to make the United Nations General Assembly declare the Jewish Nation State of Israel as a member of the United Nations International Community. Sadly, although, according to a White Paper to the Balfour Doctrine/Agreement, there was to be a separate but equal State of Palestine approved alongside the Jewish Nation State. The United States Government, to date, continues to deny the people of Palestine a homeland promised in 1947 whereas, the current US Presidential Administration is the worst administration in history against the Palestinians. Trump is worse than the traitor Harry S. Truman, in my opinion.

In the previous chapters, I attempted to reveal that modern science and true international history debunks the Old and New Testament presentation that the God of Abraham is responsible for the very existence of our solar system and all life forms on Earth - which are all untruths. To this end, if our country and the international community is going to return to a sense of truth, honor, equality, prosperity and security in 2026 and beyond, the people of the United States must vote for individuals with honor and love the United States. We no longer have representatives of the people but political prostitutes that confirm to their particular political party's platform.

EPILOGUE

Today, June 5, 2025, Mr. Elon Musk asked his Twitter subscribers if there should be another political party in the United States. Regarding this question, I read where 84% agreed that another political party was needed.

Wow! This is not strange to me as I attempted to establish a new political party in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, The US Nationalist Worker's Party, decades past. I didn't have any support, nor did I have an attorney or the money necessary to establish a new political party, but I saw then as so many US citizens see today, the need.

For example, in my opinion, the legislative branch of the US Federal Government, since 1776, have not introduced, to my knowledge, any Constitutional Amendments that would return our Constitution to today's environment and the future prosperity and security of the United States. Moreover, the Republican and Democrat Parties revealed their lack knowledge of United States' history and failed to enforce Constitutional dictates that deny a state religion through their compliance with party platforms instead of representing the people of the United States.

If you are a true citizen and believe we were to be a nation of equality for all species of human beings, then please, in November, vote for politicians that are honest US citizens, not party platform candidates. The failure to do so will result in the United States becoming a third-world country where the rich keep a nation at war to await destruction.
